Low Permeability Tank Site Cleanups

The U.S. EPA recently released a compendium of available research on "Assessing and Remediating Low Permeability Geologic Materials Contaminated by Petroleum Hydrocarbons from LUSTs." This helpful publication is available here:

As an aside, please know we appreciate your ongoing efforts to keep projects moving forward at a time when all of our lives have been unexpectedly disrupted. Please stay in touch with our claims staff as your plans and schedules change. We wish all the best to you, your families, and your businesses as we work our way through these unusual circumstances together.
